SHINY SURFACES AND SHIMMERING SILHOUETTES

Coming from a textile-based family, Mumbai girl Avni Sejpal's frequent visits to her father's factory and small artisanal villages during her childhood, ignited her passion in design and architecture. However, as she puts it, it was only after she acquired a masters in design in London that she truly fell in love it. For her, lighting involves a blend of traditional craft techniques in contemporary contexts. These are essentially hand-made renderings that make the design irregular and unique. "My inspiration comes from nature, geometry and art," she says. According to Sejpal, energy efficient light source LEDs and use of vintage metals such as copper, brass and even gold are current popular trends.
